

No. 262 May 2009

Israel's Election System Is No Good

By Bernard Lewis

6 May 2009

[I]t is becoming increasingly clear that electoral reform of some kind is imperative if Israeli democracy is to survive. The latest election reveals in an acute form the gaping inadequacies and, worse still, the looming dangers of the existing electoral process and the resulting political structure: indecisive, splintered and at times corrupt.

Click here to read article.

This article was first published in the Wall Street Journal online on 1 April 2009.

Articles in the Perspectives series plus a large library of books, studies, speeches, articles and DVDs on a wide range of public policy issues can be found at nzbr.org.nz.

Related studies and commentary:

MMP and Public Policy

A speech delivered to the Dunes Symposium on Waiheke Island

2 August 2007

By Graeme Hunt

[\[Full text\]](#)

MMP means Much More Paralysis

An article first published in the Otago Daily Times

23 September 2005

By Roger Kerr

[\[Full text\]](#)

Submission to the MMP Review Committee

A submission by the New Zealand Business Roundtable

July 2000

[\[Full text\]](#)

MMP the right decision?

A report published by the New Zealand Business Roundtable

October 1999

By Richard Epstein

[\[Full text\]](#)

Reflections on Electoral Reform

A speech delivered to the Vision 2020: Directions for New Zealand Conference

22 June 1993

By Roger Kerr

[\[Full text\]](#)

If you have received this email from a friend or colleague and wish to subscribe, please click here.

If you wish to unsubscribe from the Roundtable mailing list, please click here.